MSA2023 - Important update

It's the final countdown!

The stage is set and we are looking forward to seeing everyone next month in Wellington. We have a full house of sponsor exhibits, three days of talks, five outstanding plenaries, plenty of exciting social and networking options and an awesome venue in the coolest little capital city. With all this on offer, you will most certainly grow your knowledge, see some pretty fancy gear, network with the experts and have those knarly questions answered, making your investment well worth it.

Have your registered yet?

If you haven't done so yet, please register now. We only have limited seats left and will be closing registrations by Monday 13th February if not before.

MSL Tour - Monday 20th February

This is a request to check your registration. The tour to visit the Measurement Standards Laboratory is happening on Monday 20th February, departing Te Papa at 1pm, returning in time for the Welcome Function at 5pm. The full conference registration does not include the MSL tour and you need to register separately. We need to confirm the seats required on the coach so it's important that you have registered for this as well as the full conference.

Programme update - Ask an Expert

On day three, the conference is hosting an 'Ask an Expert Session'. Regardless of whether you are attending conference or not please email your knarly questions/problems to msa2023@metrology.asn.au. While we will also invite questions from the audience, priority will be given to emailed questions from registered delegates, followed by emailed questions from non-delegates, then questions from the audience. The knowledge base in the room is sure to get your calibration/metrology issues sorted. We will compile the questions and answers following the conference and publish these on the website.

Partner Tickets

We have plenty of opportunities for partners to join us during the conference week, but please ensure you have registered for this. Check your confirmation to ensure you have this covered.
